RECRUITS WANTED.

Each Man's Special Abilities Utilised to the Fullest Extent.

The regular army recruit depot at Fort Ethan Allen is anxious to hear from a few hundred other young Vermonters of sood character, single, between 18 and the list of injured.

Passengers on the new car, No. 51, being so badly smashed on the front end. The two bumpers not coming together also possibly lessened the list of injured. 40 years of age, for enlistment in the army. No special training is necessary to enlist. Recruits are all trained progressively and efforts are made to utilize every man's special abilities to the fullest extent in the interests of the government as well as the individual.

Men enlisting now should have special electricians, telegraph, telephone or wire-had passed tried to calm the others un-less operators, wiremen, machinists, til the doors were opened and they service in the signal corps and the cook

Men enlisting now should have especial opportunities for getting early training. Recruits are being enlisted and shipped to the camps at Syracuse, N. Y., Fort Myer, Va., and other training rendezvous It is believed that many more young men would be glad to enlist if they were able to get definite information. The all questions and recruits have no difficulty in getting passes or furloughs for few days if necessary to return home and settle affairs.

The depot would appreciate all the Vermont papers copying this notice.
